Phony owls solve pigeon problem

By Rob L. Wagner

Not long ago an elderly woman pushed open the heavy glass door at the Foothill Communities Law and Justice Center as she was leaving and looked warily up at the Rancho Cucamonga building's archway leading to the parking lot.

Then looking down at the brick tiles splattered with pigeon droppings under her feet, she grimaced.

"This is a new building?" she asked indignantly as she gingerly stepped around the mess. "This is disgusting!"

Yes. It was disgusting. So sickening in fact that county officials were scratching their heads on how to deal with the growing pigeon population at the Haven Avenue and Foothill Boulevard courthouse without being labeled as bird

After all, it was becoming commonplace for regulars at the 19-month-old facility to automatically look up as they exited the building lest they become a bombing target for inconsiderate fowl

In stepped Marie Alonzo, director of Facilities Management for San Bernardino County. Alonzo doesn't like the idea of being pigeon-holed as a killer of warm-blooded vertebrate simply because they add new meaning to the old saying of the sky is falling. It's bad public relations.

What Alonzo discovered through research was that pigeons don't get along with

Ride-sharing program aimed at clearing air

By Kimberly Heinrichs

SAN BERNARDINO - Airquality officials gathered here last week to celebrate "Way to Go Day," kicking off a mandatory ride-sharing program and patting the backs of the few employers that have dug in and encouraged car pooling early.

When Southern Californians meet the goal average of 1.5

persons per car, their air will have 274 fewer tons of pollution circulating through it, said Henry Wedaa, vice chairman of the South Coast Air Quality Management District.

"It is somewhat appropriate that today of all days we will be having a smog attack (and) we're here to kick off this program," he said, as temperatures soared into the 100s and smog surged into the very unhealthful category.

Beginning July 1, the AQMD began sending notices to firms employing 500 or more to begin crafting programs to inspire workers to cut back on car trips. The rule affects only those who report during frenzied commuter hours of 6 a.m. to 10 a.m.

Already such West Valley employers as the city of Rancho

Cucamonga and Lockheed Aeronautical Systems Inc. have had some success in getting their employees to double up.

In all, the regulation will affect 8,500 employers in San Bernardino, Riverside, Los Angeles and Orange counties.

Suggested incentives include subsidized bus fares, preferred parking for car-poolers, bike racks and showers and shorter

"It's probably the first AQMD regulation that involves what's called a lifestyle change," said board member Carole Beswick, the Redlands mayor who represents the county's cities.

Although ride-sharing is voluntary among the employees, the plans are mandatory among the employers.

Some say artists are born and not taught. But Deena Capparelli believes even children can, and should, learn the basics.

Capparelli, who teaches art at Pasadena City College, uses the same techniques to teach children at her Chaffey College summer art workshop as she uses with her college students.

She said the two-week program, which is open to children 8 to 13, is "tailored after how the European universities teach kids.'

Capparelli's workshop focuses on "drawing and composing through nature." She said she will encourage the students to examine nature both in detail and at a distance.

She also will introduce the students to the use of shadows, negative and positive space, and color theory.

Capparelli feels a program such as hers is necessary because students are getting inadequate exposure to art in elementary schools and high

"In school they do macaroni and paste projects," she said. "This isn't that at all."

She said much of the problem stems from the fact that "when you get a degree to teach elementary school you don't have an art background ... The teachers don't understand (the techniques) themselves.

Capparelli's assistant Jan Blair noted, "As soon as a budget gets cut in a school, the first thing to go is the art program.

Turning off that pilot light makes cents

Southern California Gas Co. customers can have some extra money in their pockets this summer by simply turning off the pilot light on their home furnace.

"Turning off furnace pilots will reduce gas consumption in the home, helping customers keep their gas usage within the summer 'baseline' allowance," aaid Bob Mack, district manager for the utility.

Through October, the first 19 therms of gas used is billed at the low baseline rate of 33 cents per therm. Additional gas usage is then charged at the higher rate of 85 cents per therm.

Mack said instructions for turning off the pilot are usually found on the instruction plate attached to the heater of furnace.

By the end of this month, the district will have notified at least 200 of the 1,200 larger companies which will have 90 days to submit a plan, said AQMD attorney Curt Coleman. The district has 30 days to vote on it and after approval, it goes into effect immediately, he said.

Employers with between 200 and 500 workers will begin receiving notices Jan. 1, 1989. and those with between 100 and 200 will get them a year later, Coleman said. As part of the plan companies must have a trained transportation coordinator that has spent 40 hours learning the trade, he said.

Some employers began early, such as Lockheed, which signed up more than 700 of its 3,000 employees with Commuter Computer during a one-day push last March, spokesman John Dailey said. Commuter Computer is a non-profit agency which matches compatible carpoolers.

Filing period for R.C. candidates well on the way

By Lee Peterson

Kicking off what promises to be a populous November Rancho Cucamonga election, eight residents picked the first day of the candidate filing period to obtain nomination papers from the city clerk.

Five people obtained forms last week for the two available City Council seats; including in their ranks Foothill Fire Protection District board member Kevin Eggleston and former Community Services Director Bill Holley. Both had previously announced their intentions to seek office.

The council field is so far rounded out by first-time candidates James Curatalo, a retired Los Angeles Police detective sergeant, Ken Walston, a software inspector for Hughes Aircraft in Fullerton, and Vernistine Bacon of Etiwanda.

Mayor Dennis L. Stout was the first to take out papers for the mayoral race, as he seeks his second two-year term

City Clerk Beverly Authelet will be seeking her second fouryear term, and City Treasurer Jim Frost, 44, also will be running for re-election.

Authelet, 51, served as deputy city clerk for the city prior to her election to city clerk in 1984. Frost, the top vote-getter in the city's first council election in 1977, was the city's first mayor. He ran unopposed for treasurer in 1984

The filing period continues through Aug. 12. By that date, all those who intend to run for office must have turned in their forms complete with at least 20 signatures of registered local voters. Earlier this month, the City Council waived the proposed $200 filing fee.

Ontario resident lost S.S. card and country

By Kimberly Heinrichs

Casey Zwart grew up in Ontario, graduated from Chaffey High School, became a Marine and went to the Philippines. He came back to work as a forklift operator, paid taxes and voted.

The 36-year-old considered himself much like any other U.S. citizen until he lost his Social Security card.

Now he is unemployed, unnnerved and, as he puts it, a man without a country.

That's because the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service has no record of when Zwart, his parents and his brothers and sisters entered the New York Harbor on the ship "Southern Cross" from Holland

Although he has no records of his own, he does have the naturalization certificates of his father, Teunis, now dead, and his mother, Hendrika, with whom he lives in Ontario. He said he has taken those, along with their passports and other records to the Los Angeles INS office several times with no results. In fact, he has been fighting this battle since last October.

"They say, 'You'll have to come back another day,' or they have another story to tell me. I'm getting burnt out by it," he

Six months ago Zwart lost his job. Because of new INS regulations, employers must see a Social Security card or other proof of citizenship before they can hire him.

"I can get a couple of jobs right now, but I can't because I don't have my card," Zwart said. "It gets me pretty emotional when you see someone working and the bottom line is you can't get a job.

None of his three sisters or brother have had problems with their citizenship status, he said. Two of his sisters even got their passports later - something he is unable to do.

"I'm being treated like an illegal person," he said.

In his frustration he has turned to Rep. George E. Brown's office for help. The Riverside Democrat's staff has been trying to wade with him through the famed bureaucracy of the INS.

"Not being able to find an said Scott Stephens, Brown's local congressional assistant. "It's kind of a weird situation and it's frustrating because if you go to the source, which is Los Angeles and Washington, and they don't have it, where do you go?'

However, INS Administrative Officer Gordon Carne offered some hope. Although he doubted whether he would be able to turn up a folder for the then 5-year-old Zwart among the 1.8 million files, he said it would be possible to track him down through his parents, who were naturalized in Los Angeles in

"I will have my assistant start snooping around," Carne promised, adding that Zwart's family's records are probably stored in the Western regional office in Laguna Nigel. "Unfortunately you can be routed and re-routed and sent here and sent there.'

Carne said he just finished locating the records of a woman whose file had been inactive for several decades with only her name and birthdate.

Holland-born Casey Zwart never had a problem as a U.S. citizen until he lost his Social Security card. Now he can't prove he entered the country.

Valley hospitals initiating AIDS precaution procedures

By Vonne Robertson

Valley hospitals are training employees to wear surgical gloves, gowns and masks to protect both patients and staff members from AIDS.

Officials at Pomona Valley Community Hospital, San Dimas Community Hospital and San Antonio Community Hospital in Upland said gloves, masks and other supplies now are located in each patient's room, and all staff members are undergoing in-service training to learn more about safety techniques and the tranmission of viral diseases.

The precautionary procedures are demanded in critical care and emergency areas where both the nurses and the patients are at higher risk of infection, hospital officials said.

In other areas of the hospitals, some discretion on the part of

Program focuses on choking in children

Choking is the leading cause of accidental death in children under the age of 1, and the fourth leading cause of accidental death in children under 5, authorities say.

A death from food choking claims the life of one child every five days in the United States. The Child and Adolescent Health Program clinics of the San Bernardino County Health Department are hoping to help prevent this needless tragedy by offering a health education program throughout the clinics during the months of August and September. The program is called "Prevent Food Choking in Young Children.

Upon entering the clinic waiting rooms, parents will be able to view photo displays which illustrate tips on how to prevent food choking and explain why children choke. Parents will also receive a pamphlet reviewing the prevention tips which include:

- Cutting foods into small
- Removing bones, seeds and pits from foods.

 Not giving hard, slippery, round foods.

 Not letting children run. play or talk with food in their mouths.

 Being sure children are sitting up to eat and are supervised by an adult

Colorful posters will also display foods that commonly cause choking in young children. These foods include whole hot dogs and other meat sticks, popcorn, hard candy, nuts, raw carrots, gum, peanut butter and whole grapes. For infants, raw apples, teething biscuits and cookies should also be avoided.

The "Chew-Chew-Express" train will be around to remind children to chew foods slowly so they don't choke. Children receive a sticker with the "chewchew train" logo and a coloring/ song sheet with tunes they can Campaign materials produced by the program, including choking foods poster, stickers, song sheets and brochures are available at nominal cost.

Fernie celebrates his 6th birthday in style

200 join in bash for boy with new heart

By Rebecca Pavitt Raney

It was more than a birthday party.

The pinatas, the merry-goround and the clown were there, but Saturday the clown's magic was upstaged by the birthday boy, who might not have lived to hear "Happy Birthday" a sixth time.

The boy, Fernando Salazar, received a heart transplant two months ago at Loma Linda University Medical Center.

But his mother, Yvonne, said she never doubted she'd light six candles for her son, whose nickname is Fernie. She said that until now, his birthdays have not always been happy occasions for the Salazars, who live in Rancho Cucamonga.

"With every birthday, we knew it was one less year we would have him," Mrs. Salazar said. "People don't know how lucky they are to have healthy kids. You never know what you have until it's gone.'

Fernie is one of six children older than 12 months to receive a heart transplant at Loma Linda. Two of those children have died.

Art and Yvonne Salazar, who work as corrections officers at the California Institution for Men in Chino, gave their son a gold cross and a tiny replica of a corrections officer's uniform for his birthday.

Heart transplant recipient Fernie Salazar greets Liza Lopez and her 9-month-old son, Anthony

He showed off the little uniform, complete with name tag and gold whistle, and explained why he had it.

'My last wish was I wanted to be a policeman," he said in a tiny, piping voice, pronouncing the last word "pleesman.

Mrs. Salazar invited 200 people to Fernie's birthday bash. Children from his kindergarten class, as well as other heart transplant recipients and their parents joined the celebration.

Students lose out on trips to Mexico

Probe continues into tour company's practices

By Lori Moody and Lee Peterson

The San Bernardino County District Attorney's Office has asked for further investigation before determining whether to prosecute a Rancho Cucamonga tour company for selling students Mexico trips that failed to materialize.

Deputy district attorney Robert Lemkau said recently that sheriff's investigators "will be working with other entities, (such as) bank records" of Groups Unlimited before it will be decided if charges will be

'We're taking it step by step and see what we glean," Lemkau said. Potential charges, if any, could include theft by false presentation or embezzlement, he said

Losses to students could total $65,000, as the price for the trips averaged $219 to $300 per person, said Detective John Schlabach of the Rancho Cucamonga sheriff's station.

The company, which took out a city business license earlier this year, was operated by Rodney Akers and his sons, Rodney Jr. and Robert, Schlabach said. The company's attorney, Ralph Pagter of Santa Ana, could not be reached for comment that day.

The Ackers apparently had been putting together trips for individuals and were hoping to enlarge the operation, the detective said.

A tape recorded message at the company's office that day said that the July trips were canceled because of expenses imposed by Mexican "hotels and people" and that the agency was in bankruptcy.

Schlabach said that 330 people purchased tickets from Groups Unlimited, 10681 Foothill Blvd., Suite 393, for tour packages to Mazatlan designed for graduating seniors. The company distributed fliers about the trips at schools throughout Southern California.

One week-long trip took place beginning June 21 or 23, he said, but two other trips, during the first and second weeks in July were canceled.

Forty students may have gone to Mexico by airplane for the second trip but that could not be confirmed, the detective said.

The investigation began July 5 after students reported that they showed up at various locations to meet buses that were to drive them to Mexicali en route to their hotels. But the vehicles weren't there, Schlabach said.

The detective said company operators told him that they decided to use buses because of problems with the train service used for the first trip.

"Somehow, in the transfer of funds, (the company) didn't get the funds from the railroad for buses and I guess it fell apart from there," the detective said.

Reservations had been made for about 400 students for trains and hotels. The company had to pay a cash advance, but was unable to get a refund, Schlabach said.

The company did issue refunds to some students "but that slotted (its) income," he said. About $10,000 still is in the company's account but refunds were stopped pending bankruptcy proceedings, the detective said.

"I feel sorry for the kids," Schlabach said. "If the Akers are telling me the truth, it's really sad. A no-win situation. Both sides are losers.'

Newcomer Curatalo has lived in Rancho Cucamonga for one year, settling here after 28 years in Temple City. Curatalo, 62, figures his 171/2 years of experience in the LAPD qualify him for the city council.

Curatalo, retired since 1973, said a rapidly growing city like Rancho Cucamonga is particularly susceptible to crime problems, and he feels his background would be of service to the council in their Alta Loma home. He has three grown children, including a son who is a firefighter for the Foothill Fire Protection District.

Walston, 36, a nine-year resident of the city, would like to participate in a comprehensive council review of all city ordinances with the purpose of weeding out those codes which he said "go against homeowners" such as certain zoning codes and the tree perservation ordinance.

Walston however would also favor a growth slowdown in the city - in 1987 the fastest growing California city between 50,000 and 100,000 population. He would favor restrictions which allow the construction of roads and other facilities to catch up with development.

"We are allowing too much growing too fast," said Walston.

legal action as members of a West Valley-based rock band, hired by Groups Unlimited to entertain the students in Mazatlan, said they will take the company to small claims court to get paid at least in part for their services.

The band, according to one member, also has agreed to act as witnesses for the graduates. Cory Briggs, bass player and spokesman for "Blind Devotion," said their scheduled four-week engagement in the Mexican resort town fell apart completely after only one week.

Briggs said the five-member group, which plays original rock 'n' roll, was left high and dry in Mazatlan by Groups Unlimited for several days and never received the money promised by the company.

Two of the band members live in Orange County, another in Los Angeles County. Guitarist/ vocalist Jon Manitta resides in Upland and Briggs in Ontario.

Outlining the band's contract, Briggs, 19, said the band was paid $1.500 up front, but also was promised percentages of the sales of beer, admission and T-shirts at their shows in

Members of the group were told that this would amount to some $1,000 a week per member, Briggs said.

After the first payday never came, the band realized the gig had fallen apart. The band was left to fend for itself as far as food was concerned and ended up charging about $400 on Brigg's credit card.

Briggs said that the band figures the company owes them a total of $10,000. They hope to recoup a total of $1,500 each -$7,500 total — in the separate cases they will bring to small claims court.

In addition, Briggs said the band wishes to disassociate itself with Groups Unlimited. Fliers printed in advance of the trip may have given the impression that the company and the group were operating together on the trip.

by all personnel who may come in contact with patients' blood, urine or any other body fluid.

In the case of the possibility of splashing of any fluids, staff members - from aides to registered nurses - are required to wear masks and gowns.

AIDS, a communicable disease which is not casually transmitted, reduces the effectiveness of the immune system thus making its victim prone to infections by organisms to which healthy people are normally resistant.

ger/

Dr. Henry F. Chambers of San Francisco General Hospital and the University of California, said the principal danger facing health care workers appears to come from being exposed to a patient's blood by being stuck with the same needle used on an infected patient.

In fact, a California nurse has sued a San Francisco hospital, charging that she was infected with the AIDS virus and, as a result, gave birth to a handicapped infant.

But national statistics, provided by the Center for Disease Control, indicate that health care occupations do not have an abnormally high incidence of AIDS.

However, data from the report indicates that health care workers who are infected with the AIDS virus are more likely to have been exposed through their work than by any other means.

And, according to officials at PVCH, SACH in Upland and San Dimas Community Hospital, patients are not offended by the precautions taken by staff members.

"We've even had patients say they are pleased because, they too, feel better protected," said Carolyn Summers, nursing educator at San Dimas Community Hospital.

LaHaise admitted that the marked increase in AIDS victims and in the carrier of the HIV disorders has made hospitals as well as "first-in" personnel from police, fire and ambulance departments more aware of the spead of viral diseases.

"In Chicago alone, there has been an 82 percent increase in the number of AIDS cases since January," LaHaise reported.

"The persons hardest to reach and to detect are the sexual partners of AIDS victims and those injecting illegal drugs," added LaHaise, who holds a doctorate degree in hospital epidemology and a bachelor of science degree in nursing. She serves as a consultant to a number of agencies and as an LaHaise came to PVCH in February, after serving a year in Saudia Arabia developing an infection control program in a 502-bed hospital.

"Patients with the AIDS virus, as with Hepatitis B, may show he signs of their diseases; she explained. "And they may also be carriers.'

According to LaHaise, a new strain of human immunodeficiency virus, called HIV II, already has been isolated. Also, hepatitis B II has been

"People are not in touch with reality if they are not using the univeral precautions," LaHaise said. "We never know what someone is carrying even if they have no signs or symptoms.'

But, she added, legislation has made it more difficult to publicly identify the patients infected with AIDS than, for instance, the person with tuberculosis, also an infectious disease.

"The outrages against AIDS are sad and can only be overcome with education - it's hard to change human behavior. Anything which is sexually transmitted is hard to control. People won't tell about sexual activities," LaHaise said.

As the in-service educational program is continued at PVCH, the universal precautions will be extended to all patients, she said. The inservice training includes personnel from dietary workers and housekeepers to technicians.

"People pass diseases, not telephones or equipment," LaHaise explained. "As the staff better understands viral diseases and their transmission, everyone feels more comfortable."

In addition to instituting infection control procedures at the hospital, LaHaise is working with the Pomona Fire Department to set up training classes for the protection of Summers said the infection control classes are mandatory for all employees at the San Dimas hospital.

"In fact, 95 percent of the employees have been through the classes where they learn how viruses are transmitted," Summers said.

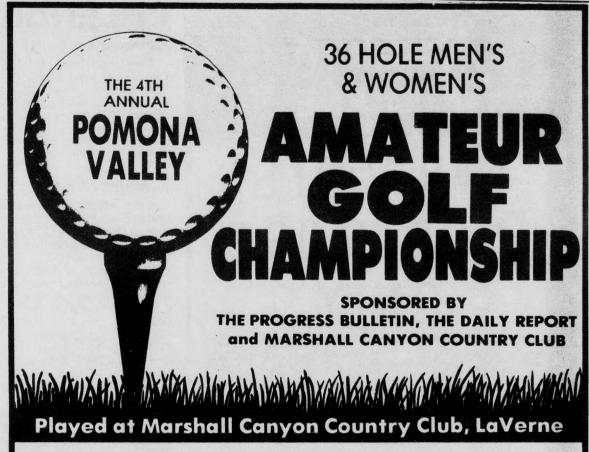

"A majority of the staff say they appreciate the classes; that they hadn't understood viruses. Now, the staff has the assurance that they really are not at risk."

Summers said a patient told an ostomy nurse he appreciated the face that the nurse was gowned and masked. "I don't need other people's infection," the patient was quoted as saying.

Summers said the San Dimas Hospital's Universal Blood and Body Fluid Program applied to all patients - not just those suspected of carrying the AIDS infectiom.

Each nurse carries a pa goggles and all other equipments is placed within each access of each patient," added Summers.

San Antonio Community Hospital started the Universal Precaution Program about 11/2

IT'S NO SECRET...
If you have an assignment...
Ilike selling a dining room set...or a lawn mower...or a used tuba...you can't do it by keeping the whole thing a secref. You have to tell people about it! And the best way to do that is through the Classified Ads. People in the market for items you may have for sale read the Classified Ads every day...until they find what they want.
So...it you have something for want.
So...if you have something for sale, don't keep it secret...call us today and let us tell the whole world about it with an inexpensive Classified Ad! A BUYER IS WAITING For A Horse! For A T.V.!

The only way to fulfill a dream is to start working on it.

For kids age 11 and older, The Daily Report offers the unique opportunity of being a newspaper carrier. It's a job that can put kids with the right attitude on the road to fullfilling dreams like being able to buy their own bikes, or having some extra money to buy other things they would like to have.

Are you a kid with a dream? If so, join the hundreds of west valley kids who already earn their own "dream-fulfilling" extra cash and still have plenty of time for other activities after working just a few hours each day.

So keep dreaming and get moving!
